PREFACE

Education is one of the key instruments which can be used for reducing poverty and for improving economic condition. But the dilemma attached with the developing countries is the lack of information available with the policy makers regarding the status of education consisting of the number of schools, teachers, enrollment, etc., which clearly handicaps decision making.

Social Policy and Development Centre (SPDC), in this context, made an effort to construct a database on Education Sector, for the researchers, policy makers and for different organisations engaged in the activities relating to the field of education. Province-wise, time-series database is constructed with the help of the different level of government publications from 1973 to 1995. Education module is disaggregated at six levels operating in our country, namely; Primary, Secondary, Intermediate, Degree, University and Vocational/Technical Education.

Primary and Secondary levels consists of 51 and 59 variables respectively; with rural/urban and gender-wise classification of variables. Three main sources are used, namely; Pakistan School Statistics published by Central Bureau of Education, Development Statistics by Provincial Bureaus of Statistics and School Education Statistics of the Provincial Education Department. Data on Intermediate and Degree levels consist of 13 and 36 variables respectively only reflecting gender-wise classification. The sources used are Pakistan Education Statistics (CBE), Development Statistics (Provincial) and College Statistics.

Information on University Education comprises of 21 variables are recorded from Development Statistics and Statistics on Higher Education, University Grants Commission. The last section of Vocational/Technical Education consists of 27 gender-wise variables. Source used for this is the Development Statistics of the provinces.

In some cases data reported was inconsistent and there were gaps in time-series at various levels. These problems have been removed by cross checking through different parallel sources and with the help of various statistical techniques such as growth rates, moving averages, etc. Best possible efforts are made to keep the reported information as it is.
